who approves loans?

Loans are approved by the President of the African Development Bank Group, which is the highest authority for approval of financing in both sovereign (public sector) and non-sovereign (private sector) operations, depending on the context.

Specifically:

- For sovereign operations, the approval authority is the President, as indicated in section PSO 2.550 (Page 55).
- For non-sovereign operations, the approval also resides with the President, as outlined in section NSO 3.500 (Page 69).

In addition, other key stakeholders such as Vice-Presidents and Directors have delegated authorities for different stages of loan processing and specific activities, but final approval generally rests with the President 10 .

- Page 55 : PSO 2.550 details the approval process for sovereign projects and programs.
- Page 69 : NSO 3.500 specifies that the President approves non-sovereign operations' financing and investments.
